

EMPLOYMENT Options

Created by the Employment Committee
2013
Revised October 2014

EASTERN LOS ANGELES
REGIONAL CENTER

POSTSECONDARY EDUCATION

Is Education after the high-school level.

Resources:

www .ThinkCollege.net

This is a website for transition-age students with intellectual disabilities, their parents and the professionals who work with them. The site has a database of colleges across the country that support the inclusion of students with intellectual disabilities, as well as resource materials on person-centered planning, funding options, and the differences between high school and college. Discussion boards, a listserv and publications are also available.

www .going-to-college.org/

This site contains information about living college life with a disability. It is designed for high school students and provides video clips, activities and additional resources that can help students get a head start in planning for college.

www.communityinclusion.org

ICI offers training, clinical, and employment services, conducts research, and provides assistance to organizations to promote inclusion of people with disabilities in school, work, and community activities.

COMPETITIVE EMPLOYMENT

is work in the competitive labor market that is performed on a full-time or part-time bases in an integrated setting; and for which an individual is compensated at or above the minimum wage, but not less than the customary wage and level of benefits paid by the employer for the same or similar work performed by individuals who are not disabled.

MICROENTERPRISE

is a small business owned by an individual formed around the person's interest and developed based on market needs and interests. Is a subset of customized employment. A thorough self sufficient business plan is developed, implemented and maintained by the owner with or without reasonable support. The individual will demonstrate and establish their financial means. The small business shall comply with all regulatory requirements stipulated in Title 17 sections 7136.8

Self-employment is the act of generating one's income directly from customers, clients or other organizations as opposed to being an employee of a business (or person).

In the United States, any person is considered self-employed for tax purposes if that person is running a business as a sole proprietorship, independent contractor, as a member of a partnership, or as a member of a limited liability company that does not elect to be treated as a corporation.

Other options:

CUSTOMIZED EMPLOYMENT

individualizes the employment relationship between an individual seeking employment and employers in ways that meet the needs of both. It is based on a personalized determination of the strengths, requirements, and interests of an individual with a disability, and is also designed to meet the specific needs of the employer. Customized Employment is not a program but rather a set of principles and strategies that result in employment. It may include employment attained through self employment job development, entrepreneurship, or restructuring strategies that result in job responsibilities being customized and individually negotiated to fit the need of the individual with a disability.

SUPPORTED EMPLOYMENT

is paid work that is integrated in the community for individuals with intellectual disabilities. This includes provision of ongoing support services necessary for the individual to retain employment. Supported Employment may be provided in individual or group setting.

WORK ACTIVITY PROGRAM (WAP)

is a service provided through the Department of Rehabilitation that include paid work, work adjustment and supportive habilitation services in a sheltered work shop sheltered workshops, work activity centers, or community-based work. Work activity programs WAP's may include developing good work safety practices, money management skills, and appropriate work habits. Supportive habilitation services may include social skill and community resource training as long as the services are necessary to achieve vocational objectives.

INTERNSHIP

Method of on the job training, which may be paid or unpaid, similar to apprenticeship for trade or vocational jobs, and are usually understood to be temporary positions. Typically part or an element of an educational training program.